For Parents

Characteristics and Educational Role

Developing motor skills

Children will learn how to perform tasks in their daily life such as cleaning by posing the articulated figurines in a wide variety of different positions and focusing their attention on the details of the actions.

Fostering interpersonal communication skills

With an entire world to play with, children's imagination will know no bounds. By combining buildings and decorating them with their furniture of choice, they will also develop their sense of space and readiness.

Fostering creativity and imagination

Children will develop their communication skills and learn to care for others by exploring a great variety of play patterns and playing with various characters that they can identify with.

Stimulating interest in education and art and deepening curiosity

The sweet expressions of the figurines, the unified sizes of the dollhouses and furniture and the high quality of the toys, perfect in every detail, will stimulate children's interest in education and art and foster perceptiveness and an appreciation of beauty.

Imitating the daily life of adults

By playing with animal characters that behave like human beings, with an ample lineup of products that instinctively bring to mind a familiar setting, children will naturally be inspired to imitate their own household and jobs that they would like to do when they grow up.
